DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 12/13/07 has been entered.

Response to Arguments

2. The Applicants' arguments, see in particular Pages 2-5 of the submission, filed 8/31/07, along with the supporting figures, submitted 12/13/07, with respect to the rejections of Claims 1-3, 5, 12-14 in Section 8 of the Office Action dated 12/19/06, have been fully considered and are persuasive. The Examiner additionally notes that in reviewing Figures 3-4 of Andreatta along with col. 2, lines 42-61 and col. 8, lines 15-41 of Ignatov et al., it has been found that though the ensemble of molecules of Andreatta do align themselves along the rubbing direction, Figures 3-4 of Andreatta also shows that the absorption axis for these films is also aligned along the rubbing direction, and thus the transmission axis is perpendicular to the rubbing axis. However, with respect to the molecules of Ignatov et al., Ignatov et al. specifically states that though the ensemble of molecules align themselves along the rubbing direction, the various molecule planes of the ensemble of molecules align themselves perpendicular to the rubbing direction.

Further Ignatov et al. notes that for these types of molecules, the transmission axis is actually aligned along the rubbing direction, and not perpendicular to the rubbing direction. Thus, it is clear that in Andreatta, the molecule planes for the ensemble of molecules have also aligned themselves parallel to the rubbing direction, which is contrary to the recited limitations of Claim 1. The rejections of Claims 1-3, 5, 12-14 in Section 8 of the Office Action dated 12/19/06 have been withdrawn.

3. No arguments were made with respect to the double patenting rejections in Section 6 of the Office Action dated 12/19/06.
4. Claims 1, 12-14 are again rejected as follows.

Specification

5. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

6. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:
Abstract, line 1- 'The present invention provides a' should read 'A'.

Abstract, line 2- ‘comprising’ should read ‘including’

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Double Patenting

7. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the “right to exclude” granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

8. Claims 1, 12-14 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over Claims 1-9 of U.S. Patent No. 6965473. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because U.S. Patent No. 6965473 similarly discloses a polarizing plate (See Claims 1-4 of U.S. Patent No. 6965473) comprising a polarizing layer having a thickness of about 20 nm to 1500 nm formed by rubbing at least one surface of a substrate; coating the rubbed surface of the substrate with an aqueous solution containing a dye having a tabular molecular shape; and drying the solution, wherein the dye having a tabular molecular shape coated on the rubbed surface of the substrate is oriented roughly perpendicular to the rubbing direction. U.S. Patent No. 6965473 additionally discloses a liquid crystal display device comprising the polarizing plate according to Claim 1 laminated on a liquid crystal cell with the polarizing layer being positioned closer to the liquid crystal cell (See Claim 7 of U.S. Patent No. 6965473); a front polarizing plate is placed on a surface of the liquid crystal cell opposite to the surface on which the polarizing plate is laminated (See Claim 8 of U.S. Patent No. 6965473); and the front polarizing plate is the same as the polarizing plate placed opposite to the liquid crystal cell (See Claim 9 of U.S. Patent No. 6965473).

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 2-3, 5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

10. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the application prior to the entry of the submission under 37 CFR 1.114 and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action after the filing of a request for continued examination and the submission under 37 CFR 1.114. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
